Editorial

As of this issue, we have expanded our group of editors. I am very pleased to announce that ROEL BEETSMA (University of Amsterdam), JEREMY EDWARDS (University of Cambridge) and EFRAIM SADKA (Tel Aviv University) have joined the editorial board.

To signal the strictly international perspective of the journal, from next year on, ifo Studien will be renamed CESifo Economic Studies. Only articles written in English will be published. We have already established a board of well known international associate editors from the CESifo network.

CESifo Economic Studies aims to bridge the gap between specialised research in economics and the interest of non-specialists. The journal combines theory and empirical research with a strong emphasis on policy issues. CESifo Economic Studies will publish contributed papers by top level academic economists which are written in a style accessible to all economists regardless of their specialization. The primary focus of the journal is on policy problems, but it also publishes high quality, non-technical articles of general interest to economists. All articles appearing in the journal are thoroughly refereed. The journal is circulated to a wide audience including governments, businesses, and policy-makers as well as academics and students.

We encourage you to submit your papers to the re-launched journal. Submissions (in electronic form) should be sent to
